i copied numbers from an online account.
pasted them into excel 2002.
how do i convert the numbers to numbers i can multiply etc?
i tried putting a 1 into a cell then copying and paste special multiply tried converting the cell to numbers

thanks all

Try doing a "Text to Columns" on the column, i.e. highlight the whole column, select "Text to Columns" from the Data menu, and click Finish.
Does that fix them?

tried =a1+0
the following does not make sense. i have no rules section

- To do this in Microsoft Excel 2002 or in Microsoft Office Excel 2003, follow these steps:
 - On the Tools menu, click Options.
 - In the Options dialog box, click the Error Checking tab.
 - In the Settings section, click to select the Enable background error checking check box.
 - In the Rules section, make sure the Number stored as text rule is selected, and then click OK.
- To do this in Microsoft Office Excel 2007, follow these steps:
 - Click the Microsoft Office Button, and then click Excel Options.
 - On the Formulas tab, click to select the Enable background error checking check box in the Error Checking section.
 - Under Error checking rules, make sure that the Numbers formatted as text or preceded by an apostrophe check box is selected, and then click OK.
- On the Error Checking Options button, click the down arrow.

Notice that the Number Stored as Text menu appears.

- Click Convert to Number.

Notice that the cell is converted to the number format and the Error Indicator no longer appears in the cell.

The screenshot displays a forum interface with a dark green header. The header contains navigation links: "Forums", "What's new", "New posts", "Excel Articles", and "MrExcel Publishing". On the right side of the header are "Log in" and "Register" links.

The main content area features a user profile on the left for "anon125", an "Active Member" who joined on "Feb 14, 2008" and has sent "349" messages. The profile picture is a green circle with a white letter "A".

The forum post, dated "Oct 17, 2019", is by user "Joe4" and asks: "Can you post an example of any number on your sheet, what it looks like? Then, for that exact value, let's say it is in cell A1. What does this formula return? =LEN(A1)". The reply from "anon125" states: "Thanks the length is indeed correct. the numbers look like any other number. position is of course affected by the alignment buttons thanks".

Below the post are pagination controls (1, 2, 3, 4, Next) and a "Share:" section with icons for Facebook, Twitter, Reddit, Pinterest, Tumblr, WhatsApp, Email, and a link icon.

Below the share section is a breadcrumb trail: "Forums > Question Forums > Excel Questions >".

Two advertisements are present. The first is an orange "In-content Best Post" ad with dimensions "300x250" and "336x280" and the text "STYLOWY". The second is a larger orange "Native Video Unit" ad with a background image of an Excel spreadsheet.

A small white box on the right side of the forum post contains the text: "You must log in or register to reply here."
